MATH 308 Assignment 17:
Exercises 7.6

Nakul Joshi

April 10, 2014

1

a)

The actual mean of the distribution is not random; thus the probability of it being in any interval is necessarily either zero or one, and can never be an intermediate value such as 95%.

b)

This is a correct interpretation.

c)

The interpretation is incorrect by the same reasoning as ??- the actual mean is a nonrandom constant.

d)

This is a correct interpretation.

e)

2

7

8

10

12

17

20

24

25

31

34

37